The new series from the author of The Murdoch Mysteries!

Embroiled in international intrigue and the hunt for a founding, your favourite 1930s PI is back in the highly anticipated third installment of Maureen Jennings' Paradise Café series.

Charlotte Frayne, Private Investigator, is pulled into a dangerous international plot when her boss, Mr. Gilmore, provides shelter to a relative in grave danger. Stephen, newly arrived from Germany, is privy to information that could change the very future of a country still reeling from a devastating war — and at his heels are powerful forces that will do anything to ensure his intel never sees the light of day.

Meanwhile, Charlotte's estranged mother reappears, wanting her help to find a child she gave up at birth twenty years ago. Despite her turbulent feelings, Charlotte agrees to investigate, unknowing that the two cases will connect in surprising ways.

Back at the Paradise Café, Christmas draws near and Charlotte's beau Hilliard Taylor and his partners are in disagreement about the holiday concert. With her beloved grandfather in the mix, there's no telling whether the show will end in good tidings or tyranny.
