WATER PROOF a novel by AARON BUSHKOWSKY

"With the bucolic settings, oddball characters, and bizarre twists that seem entirely real, Water Proof will make you laugh and care, and then sad when it's all over." — Susie Moloney, author of The Thirteen and Things Withered

 \sim

A dark, rousing comedy set in and around the Pacific Northwest, Water Proof is a story about infidelity, filmmaking, and the search for a missing kayaker.

When a self-driving car hits an extra on set and a lawsuit is filed, Andy sets out to bankrupt his own production company by making a movie about his weird and romantic life of infidelity. With his wife Anna, and her best friend, he embarks on a location-scouting trip to Desolation Sound, but the trip takes a disastrous turn when the friend goes missing and they have to call in search and rescue.

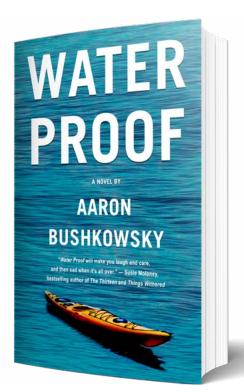

Not wanting the search to expose his affair with his wife's best friend, Andy steals a memory card out of her camera. A memory card with evidence of the affair.

But Andy's not as discreet as he thinks and the memory card is stolen from him. With the disastrous support of his best friend, Will, Andy makes a series of hilariously bad decisions in an attempt to recover it, leading him further from Anna than ever before. Will their marriage finally reach its breaking point?

THE LOST EXPERT a novel by HAL NIEDZVIECKI

Praise for previous work, The Archaeologists:

"These characters and their stories feel familiar (especially to any Canadian who has lived in a suburb), but their tangling and untangling is riveting enough that they're never boring." — Quill & Quire

When Chris, an unambitious young waiter, walks through the park on his way home from work, he stumbles onto the set of a Hollywood film — and is promptly mistaken for the missing lead actor.

Corralled into filming a scene for The Lost Expert — director Bryant Reed's last-ditch effort to restore his reputation — Chris assumes the identity of international action star Thomson Holmes, and disconnects from his real life. He falls deeply into his newfound identity as Holmes and as his character in the film, a struggling young man who has the ability to find lost people and things.

Tensions mount as Chris gradually learns of the real Thomson Holmes' scandals and accusations of sexual misconduct. Meanwhile, the real Thomson Holmes has disappeared and Chris has reason to fear he'll be next. As he tries to figure out what happened to the actor, he grapples with his role as imposter and whether he can — or even should — extricate himself from reinvention.

Hal Niedzviecki is a writer, speaker, culture commentator, and editor whose work challenges preconceptions and confronts readers with the offenses of everyday life. He is the author of eleven books of fiction and nonfiction, including The Archaeologists, which was shortlisted for the Mary Scorer Award for Best Book by a Manitoba Publisher. Niedzviecki is also the founder and publisher of Broken Pencil: The magazine of zine culture and the independent arts. He lives in Toronto, Ontario with his wife, two daughters, and the family animal.

THE TROUPERS a novel by RICHARD SCARSBROOK

Praise for previous work, The Indifference League:

"Scarsbrook takes readers on a fast-paced, emotional roller-coaster ride ... Fans of Scarsbrook will recognize his unique humour, unshakable realism, and remarkable character construction ... Scarsbrook transforms a league of stereotypes into full, memorable, and entertaining heroes." — Publishers Weekly

The Trouper-Royale Orpheum Galaxie Theatre is a jewel in the entertainment crown of Niagara Falls. At least, that's what the marquee out front says. To the Fabulous Trouper Quintuplets their family's old theatre is a thorn in the crown of their adolescent memories.

Under their famous-child-actor-turned-director father's overbearing and narcissistic eye, the quintuplets are raised on a strict diet of Golden Age entertainment and homeschooling to mold them into the best actors of their generation. But through a series of hilarious and tragic events, the siblings begin to develop their own personalities and ambitions, rebelling against their father's aspirations for them. The tension rising from the quintuplets' newfound individualism sparks an onstage brawl during a performance on their eighteenth birthday that changes the trajectory of all their lives.

Twenty years later, the quintuplets reunite for the reading of their father's will and his demand for one last performance.

NOTHING ORDINARY

The Story of the Northern Ontario School of Medicine non-fiction by LARRY KROTZ

This is the story of how 800,000 citizens created their own school of medicine, and what it has meant for the region and its people.

Northern Ontario is a vast territory — almost as big as France and Germany combined — with a widely scattered population the size of only 10% of the rest of the province. Rich in forests, minerals, scenery and brilliant, hardy people, Ontario's north, like many other rural and remote areas, had difficulties attracting and keeping doctors. The solution, they decided, was to train their own.

An astonishing percentage of graduates remain to serve the unique needs of their home communities, from rural, to Indigenous, to Francophone. Over the course of twenty years, the Northern Ontario School of Medicine has transformed healthcare and created a legacy of a school that is far from ordinary.

Larry Krotz is a writer and documentary filmmaker who has worked with the Globe and Mail, the National Post, the Literary Review of Canada, the National Film Board of Canada, and PBS. He is the author of ten works of non-fiction, a novel, and a picture book. Krotz currently lives in Toronto, Ontario.

VALLEY OF THE RATS

a middle grade novel by MAHTAB NARSIMHAN

Praise for previous work, The Tiffin:

"Melding the fantastically factual with fiction, Narsimhan sheds light on a relatively unknown part of Mumbai life while simultaneously creating a compelling quest that reads like a classic folk tale. Forgive the groan-inducing wordplay, but a novel this original is one in six million." Starred Review — Quill & Quire

Book nerd Krish hates the outdoors, and camping. But especially germs. When Krish and his father, Kabir, take a camping trip to Ladakh, he convinces himself that they will bond, despite their differences.

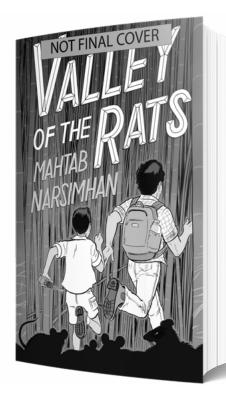

When they're lost in a bamboo forest, teeming with black rats and germs, Krish is at an all-time low. His GF (gut feel) and a couple of rats lead them to a hidden village, Imdura, unmarked on any map.

Krish and his father are allowed to stay, only if they follow rules. But Krish soon realizes the village has an odd custom of worshipping rats. They also have a secret. And so does his dad. Turns out, Krish has a secret too.

When all the secrets explode into the open, Krish and Kabir are in grave danger. Can Krish overcome his fears and phobias to take the chance offered to him? Or are he and his dad doomed to spend the rest of their lives among rats?

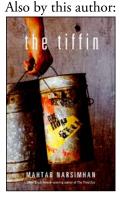

Mahtab Narsimhan is the author of a young adult trilogy, four middle grade novels, and two picture books. Her first novel, The Third Eye, won the Silver Birch Award. Its sequels, The Silver Anklet and The Deadly Conch, have received critical acclaim, and Narsimhan's standalone novel, The Tiffin, was nominated for the Red Maple Fiction Award, the Manitoba Young Readers' Choice Award and the SYRCA Snow Willow Award. A native of Mumbai (Bombay), Narsimhan now lives in British Columbia.

I'M GOOD AND OTHER LIES a young adult novel by BEV KATZ ROSENBAUM

"I'm Good and Other Lies is a sharp, funny, occasionally harrowing story of a young woman finding the resilience to fight through the impossible to get to a place of hope." - Danielle Younge-Ullman, award-winning author of Everything Beautiful Is Not Ruined and He Must Like You

Written for all who find themselves struggling during the pandemic, I'm Good and Other Lies is a book for our time.

Is it asking too much to live a typical twelfth grade existence? Kelsey Kendler just wants to earn some money for university, hang out with friends, maybe even snag a boyfriend. But her pill-popping mom and distant dad scare off anybody she tries to bring home, making those last two things feel impossible.

Her part-time ice cream shop job's a slog, but at least there she can escape her parents' constant fighting ... until the COVID-19 pandemic forces a lockdown and she's stuck at home with them 24/7.

As the lockdown takes its toll on Kelsey's mental health, she starts to see the appeal of her mom's pills. She hates what they do to her mom, but numbing herself to the world seems like a pretty good idea right about now. Horrified to find herself following in her mom's footsteps, she can only hope she'll eventually figure out some other way to cope ...

Bev Katz Rosenbaum is the author of the I Was a Teenage Popsicle series and Who is Tanksy?. She has taught creative writing at Centennial College and is an award-winning publishing industry veteran. Rosenbaum, a devoted coffee-drinker and chocoholic, spends her downtime reading, baking, and watching movies. She currently lives in Toronto, Ontario.

Zoe Emmerson has a secret, one she's kept for years. Her quiet world is shaken when her past finally catches up with her: the investigation into the murder of a six-year-old neighbour is re-opened thirty years after the fact, threatening to destroy her and everyone she's fought so hard to protect.

She was just a child when it happened, scared and confused, and she's never been entirely sure what she saw. But she kept her brother's suspected involvement in the murder from the police, and the knowledge that she withheld a crucial piece of information haunts her.

As the past collides with the present, Zoe is forced to face a most difficult truth.

When Kevin, an Irish Montrealer, attends graduate school at Oxford University in the early 1990s he meets Leon, a London Jew from a Communist family, and Alex, a Soviet defector's son raised in Toronto. As the trio forms a complex and conflicted friendship, Alex pulls away, spending more of his time tutoring an upper-class undergraduate. In a fit of jealousy, Kevin and Leon play a prank on Alex and the undergrad, a prank with dire consequences.

Ultimately, the three young men go their separate ways, but what happened that night binds them together and helps lead them to freedom and self-discovery in a post-Cold War world.

BIO031000 BIOGRAPHY & AUTOBIOGRAPHY / LGBTQ+

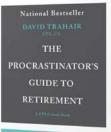

When eighteen-year-old Gerald Hannon left his small pulp mill community in Marathon, Ontario to attend the University of Toronto, he never would have predicted he'd become part of LGBTQ+ history. Almost sixty years later, he reflects on the major moments in his career as a journalist and LGBTQ+ activist. From the charges of transmitting immoral, indecent, and scurrilous literature laid against him and his colleagues at The Body Politic to his dismissal from his teaching post at Ryerson University for being a sex worker, this memoir candidly chronicles Hannon's life as an unrepentant sex radical.

Let's face it, planning and saving for retirement is not easy. We are told that the earlier we start, the better, and that the "magic of compounding" will make our dreams come true if we simply trust the stock market and our investment advisor.

For a lot of people though, putting money aside is simply not possible and many of us become procrastinators when it comes to saving for our golden years.

But there is hope. This book will take you step-by-step through planning and saving for retirement starting in your fifties.

POE011000 POETRY / Canadian / General

In his second poetry collection, Michael Lithgow reflects on startling encounters with something elusive, numinous, and larger than life amid the material demands and mundane textures of the day-to-day. The poems drift in the tensions between a pleasing life simply lived and disquieting fissures that open in it; between unease with a middle-class backdrop, and surprising, if sometimes unsettling, moments of beauty to be found there. The poet works through different kinds of grieving — for a parent who withers from cancer, for family members murdered in war, for the platforms of death on which common conveniences like grocery stores depend. Weighing harsh realities against promises of life and renewal, Lithgow's poems are a struggle to put into words something that would rather not be named.

In this second collection of poetry, Peter Unwin further explores daily life in the first quarter of the millenium in a voice familiar from his first collection, When We Were Old, which the Malahat Review praised for its "sardonic clarity ... forever tempered by a deeper caring." Packed equally with love and ruin, The Infinite Park documents the ways each day comes undone, and celebrates the tireless minute-by-minute heroics required to put it back together.

Where have all the raccoons gone?

The answer to that question is scarier than any zombie horde. People have discovered that raccoons are more than just rodents who knock over their garbage bins; they might be a tool for ending zombie-ism.

And that is bad news for raccoons.

It's the summer of 1978 and most people think Elvis Presley has been dead for a year. But not eleven-year-old Truly Bateman — because she knows Elvis is alive and well and living in the Eagle Shores Trailer Park. Maybe no one ever thought to look for him on an Indigenous reserve on Vancouver Island.

It's a busy summer for Truly. Though her mother is less of a mother than she ought to be, and spends her time drinking and smoking and working her way through new boyfriends, Truly is determined to raise as much money for herself as she can through her lemonade stand ... and to prove that her cool new neighbour is the one and only King of Rock 'n' Roll. And when she can't find motherly support in her own home, she finds sanctuary with Andy El, the Salish woman who runs the trailer park.

"Claws of the Panda fills an important need." — Quill & Quire

"A sweeping and authoritative book ..." — Vancouver Sun

Claws of the Panda traces the evolution of the Canada-China relationship over nearly 150 years. It tells the story of Canada's failure to construct a workable policy towards the People's Republic of China. In particular, the book tells of Ottawa's failure to recognize and confront the efforts by the Chinese Communist Party to infiltrate and influence Canadian politics, academia, and media, and to exert control over Canadians of Chinese heritage.

ISBN 978-1-77086-582-2 • $24.95 • TP w/ flaps • 6" x 9" • 320 pp PHI01900 / PHILOSOPHY / Political

"This global affairs veteran has carved out a solid, mature path, including for 'flawed democracies' like the U.S. We'd all be wise to follow." — Vancouver Sun

"Manthorpe has done an excellent job of detailing the problems, and pointing to some hopeful directions, all written with the clarity, severity and authority of an excellent journalist." — Policy Magazine

From the author of the Globe and Mail bestseller, Claws of the Panda, comes a book quite literally for our times. Restoring Democracy in an Age of Populists and Pestilence is a thoughtful account of how we can save democracies from the despots and populists who provide easy answers to complicated situations, dumbing political discourse down to sandbox antics.

As COVID-19 adds to the internal pressures and contradictions that are already threatening the survival of many democratic systems, Manthorpe argues that democracy is more resilient than it appears, and is capable of overcoming the attacks from within and without that have sapped its vigour since the end of the Cold War.

NANAIMO GIRL a memoir by PRUDENCE EMERY

"Reading Nanaimo Girl is like enjoying a martini or three with Auntie Mame. The stories are colourful, global, boozy and just cheeky enough to make you envious — and at the same time a little concerned." — Dana Gee, Vancouver Sun

"These are bleak times, for sure, so a memoir from someone who merrily defied expectations is welcome." — Susan Cole, NOW Magazine

Born in Nanaimo, British Columbia in the 1930s, Prudence Emery was expected to do the right things, but shattered family expectations by going to art school in London, England, where studies sometimes took a back seat to partying. And then she found herself in the world of celebrities.

From Expo 67 in Montreal to the press office at London's Savoy Hotel, Prudence met the likes of Twiggy, Noël Coward, Louis Armstrong, Petula Clark, Liza Minnelli, and Edward Albee. She escorted David Frost to an interview with Sheikh Mujibur Rahman and arranged for Pierre Trudeau to attend a party where he met Barbra Streisand for the first time. It was a world so rich with stories that the Canadian Press wrote, "If ever a job was tailormade for a book of memoirs, Prudence Emery has it."

But that was just the beginning. A new career as a film publicist spanned decades and introduced her to some of Hollywood's biggest names, from Sophia Loren to Jennifer Lopez, from Peter O'Toole to Matt Damon. She worked with Nicolas Cage when he was a nervous teenager and later when he was an outgoing superstar. And she was a frequent colleague of famed director David Cronenberg.

Nanaimo Girl is the story of a life well-lived and an encouragement to all, young and old, to get out, defy expectations, and have a rip-roaring good time.

Prudence Emery was born in Nanaimo, educated in Vancouver, then lived in London, UK, and Toronto, before moving to Victoria, British Columbia.

Just when you think you have nothing left to lose, they come for your dreams.

In a future world ravaged by global warming, people have lost the ability to dream, and the dreamlessness has led to widespread madness. The only people still able to dream are North America's Indigenous population, and it is their marrow that holds the cure for the rest of the world. But getting the marrow, and dreams, means death for the unwilling donors. Driven to flight, a fifteen-year-old and his companions struggle for survival, attempt to reunite with loved ones, and take refuge from the "recruiters" who seek them out to bring them to the marrow-stealing "factories."

Cherie Dimaline is a Métis author and editor whose award-winning fiction has been published and anthologized internationally. CORMORANT BOOKS

On the cusp of becoming teenagers, Ralph, his sister Shelley, and their friend William, befriend Danielle, an odd girl in their school. She draws an extraordinary horse in a competition created by Ralph's mother for the children of the Otter Lake Reserve. It's the kind of drawing no child — or adult, for that matter — should be able to draw. It will haunt Ralph into adulthood, because it represents everything wrong in Danielle's life and everything she wished her life could be. As teenagers and later as adults, Ralph, Shelley, and William are intrigued by what the horse means to the girl, and how they might be able to help her.

Winner of the 2020 Hamilton Literary Awards - Poetry

In her sixth poetry collection, Pilling documents scenes in the life of a Huron County family still in thrall to the ancestral farm — a father and brother who worked in the city but gave a lifetime of weekends to upkeep the land that "tugged at an unseen part of them." She memorializes a way of life that was on its way out: the end-of-summer community picnic, pies baked at six in the morning in wood ovens, mothers and daughters walking in "warm golden water" on the hard-packed river bottom, men and boys arriving after a hot day's threshing; the continuity of generations, family hopes, conflicts and tragedies lived out in a setting that "both shattered and held together" their world.

Newcomer Kammie Summers has fallen into a well during a (fake) initiation into a club whose members have no intention of letting her join. Now Kammie's trapped in the dark, growing increasingly claustrophobic, and waiting to be rescued — or possibly not. As hours pass, the reality of Kammie's predicament mixes with her memories of the highs and lows of her life so far, including the reasons her family moved to this new town in the first place. And as she begins to run out of oxygen, Kammie starts to imagine she has company, including a French-speaking coyote and goats that just might be zombies.

Breathing the Page Deep Girls Lightning Lou Things Not to Do Bottle Rocket Hearts Home Schooling Banana Boys We acknowledge this sacred land on which Cormorant Books operates. It has been a site of human activity for 15,000 years. This land is the territory of the Huron-Wendat and Petun First Nations, the Seneca, and most recently, the Mississaugas of the Credit River. The territory was the subject of the Dish With One Spoon Wampum Belt Covenant, an agreement between the Iroquois Confederacy and Confederacy of the Ojibwe and allied nations to peaceably share and care for the resources around the Great Lakes. Today, the meeting place of Toronto is still the home to many Indigenous people from across Turtle Island and we are grateful to have the opportunity to work in the community, on this territory.

We are also mindful of broken covenants and the need to strive to make right with all our relations.

We acknowledge financial support for our publishing activities: the Government of Canada through the Canada Book Fund; the Government of Ontario through the Ontario Arts Council, Ontario Creates, and the Ontario Book Publishing Tax Credit. We acknowledge additional funding provided by the Government of Ontario to address the adverse effects of the novel coronavirus pandemic.
